ZOO'S GUIDE TO ALL YOU NEED TO KNOW, WATCH, BUY & LAUGH AT THIS WEEK!

MARNIE SIMPSON

“Toys? Every girl has a few...”

Geordie Shore's newly-single sexpot reveals her bedroom antics

When it comes to rude, look no further than the latest series of Geordie Shore, which in a mere two episodes, upped its infamously raunchy escapades to unprecedented new heights.

Most surprisingly, though, there's a new culprit behind most of the hot and heavy high-jinx. Step forward newly-single stunner Marnie Simpson, who's just been announced as the new face of Lovehoney Lingerie, Britain's biggest online sex toy retailer.

Without question this gorgeous Geordie is ruder than ever – and even fessed up to owning a few naughty bestsellers from the firm's website, revealing: “Every girl has a few toys!”

Which doesn't surprise us, seeing as it was only in last week's ridiculously rude Geordie Shore that Marnie was locking lips with Chloe Ferry and promising to take her home to introduce her to her bedside cabinet collection.

Let's all pray they're saving that scene for the series finale...

THE RACE TO REPLACE BLATTER...Could YOU run football?

The battle to succeed squeaky clean Sepp Blatter as FIFA President is hotting up. Comedian (and Bristol City fan) Mark Watson runs the rule over what it takes to be a success in the beautiful game's top job...

Keep the right company!

"It's hard to see how you can top Sepp Blatter's friendship with Vladimir Putin, but in terms of powerful mates, I'd be advising the new President to cosy up with Kim Jong-un. You'd like to think whoever replaces Blatter will be in for the long haul, and Kim's not going to lose an election any time soon. It could be the start of a beautiful friendship..."

PUTIN: "COSY"*Maintain an inscrutable reputation!

"The problem is no one understands how Blatter has done it, given he appeared to talk bullst every time he opened his mouth. You need to be impossible to pin down and I think the key is to have a really silly name. People with seemingly lovable names are also the most dangerous; a bit like Bond villains, really. Either way, South Africa's Tokyo Sexwale has a big head start."

OBERHAUSER: "CONTENDER"*Make radical decisions!

"FIFA talks about spreading the game far and wide, so perhaps now is the time to discuss World Cup 2034 on Mars. There's water, it's probably more hydrated than Qatar, and will offer slightly better conditions. Maybe we could use it as the platform to launch an intergalactic team and tap into a new revenue stream? Flights would be expensive, but England fans will be there for every pointless friendly."

QATAR: "HOTTER THAN MARS"

WANTED!
HARDWORKING PROFESSIONAL

GLOBAL BUSINESS
NO ACTUAL FOOTBALL EXPERIENCE REQUIRED

Pioneering new technology!

"Watching the Rugby World Cup, it's amazing how much respect the refs get. Those players have been trained in that culture, but it's too late for footballers. Replace refs with laser-armed drones to keep them in check. Drones would also be able to keep up with play better than our officials."

"DUMP REFS, USE DRONES"

Remain diplomatic!

"FIFA's a mess and this is probably where the next President would need to come back to Kim Jong-un. He could use some of his arsenal to threaten every organisation to merge and divulge their powers to FIFA. Of course, the UEFA Champions League would have to change to the People's Republic Of Champions League."

KIM JONG-UN: "UEFA SPONSOR"

Media relations

"The 'biased' media in England has long dogged FIFA, but this could easily be resolved with a change to the rules so penalties are removed, or in the event of a draw, England go through. Tournaments are clearly weighted to prevent England getting beyond the Quarter-Final: the squad are tired from a long Premier League season, so maybe an automatic pass to the Final would be in order?"

UK PRESS:
"DOGGED FIFA"

FIFA'S NEXT PRESIDENT THE CONTENDERS

Mark Watson picks his favourites for the role – with odds courtesy of Paddy Power...

Gianni Infantino

"If Bond films have taught us anything, it's that villains have exceptional names. With that in mind, I'd be worried about putting the mighty Infantino in charge of the catering, let alone running the entire game."

THE ODDS

Jerome Champagne

"His name conjures up a posh party atmosphere, but he once tried to topple Blatter with no support – or success. I'd wager he's only got a very slim chance."

THE ODDS
10/1

Tokyo Sexwale

"Quite simply, he's got the greatest name of all time. I realise he probably pronounces it differently, but there's no way that's going to stick, is there? For that reason – and that reason alone – he's surely got it in the bag."

THE ODDS
16/1

Claude Littner

"We need someone scary who can command respect, and Claude's perfect. He's got the Blatter look and he's absolutely terrifying. Plus, during boring nil-nils, we could cut to the big screen of him looking unimpressed."

THE ODDS
500/1

Ronnie Pickering

"If we want a normal bloke off the street, Ronnie Pickering would be up there. He has the ability to stand up to people and if we want a no-nonsense figure, who better? I'm sure he would represent England quite aggressively..."

NICHOLAS HOULT TALKS TO ZOO!

"I LOVED KILLING JAMES CORDEN!"

The Mad Max star talks playing a Britpop-era psycho in latest flick Kill Your Friends, awkward sex scenes and new X-Men movie secrets...

BRINGING BACK BRITPOP

"In 1997 I was seven, so I didn't have many favourite bands back then. Though I do remember creeping into my brother's room when he was out to steal his Walkman so I could listen to The Prodigy. Someone gave me a guitar as a wrap present recently and I really enjoy playing it, but the chances of me being a musician are very slim - I'm really not musically minded!"

SEX, DRUGS AND FILMING!

"A lot of weird things happened on set with Kill Your Friends. There was this moment where I was snorting a line of fake cocaine and I coughed the whole thing right in James Corden's face. It was hilarious but equally embarrassing - I can't even pretend to take drugs right! They also cut one of my sex scenes with my assistant. My character realises he's used up his dirty talk so just calls her an 'idiot'. And even though most of the things he's already said are far worse, she gets offended by this and there's an awkward pause before they keep shagging. I wish it made it into the final cut!"

ON-SCREEN SEX!

BEAST IS

X-MEN: APOCALYPSE NEWS

"It was great to be back with the cast, but as it's set in the 80s I had to wear a lot of massive shoulder pads. I looked like a kid dressed up in his dad's suit! It's going to be epic though. The X-Men scripts aren't like other superheroes, there's no 'Hey, we're awesome, look at us.' They're grounded in a nice human way and Oscar Isaac, who's playing Apocalypse, brings it in a big way. Rest assured it's going to be a fking cool movie!"

"I can't even pretend to take drugs!"

You don't do something to me...

WORKING WITH GORDEN!

"You know what, considering everything we did to him, James was a really good sport: from us pretending to urinate on him, to making him dance around like a monkey – even the part where we get him to eat Seal CDs. Plus, I really enjoyed the murder scenes with James. They were a lot of fun. It was great that it all happens in such a random and twisted way too – for instance, bashing his head in while trying to explain that Paul Weller is primarily a singer-songwriter. It's my favourite scene."

Friends is in

JIMMY CARR GETS RUDE!

The stand-up star's just announced his new 2016 tour, proclaiming it'll be "phenomenally rude!" But will it be any more outrageous than some of these classic one-liners?

Rainbow 6 Siege first play!

COUNTER-TERRORISM TRIUMPH!

The next first-person shooter in Tom Clancy's franchise is ditching tradition. But that means it could be the best co-op experience coming to consoles...

The folks behind the Tom Clancy series are doing what no other online shooter dare: go all in for multiplayer and throw out campaign mode completely.

The meaty online co-op mode's unique intense close quarters battles, high lethality and tactics are inspired by counter-terrorism missions across the world. And, as we learned at an exclusive hands-on, it delivers in spades when you suit up with your squaddies...

Strategic multiplayer

This isn't just another mass multiplayer shooter packed with blokes dashing around firing wildly: it's far more strategic and intense. You work as a team to win the match and, better yet, when we jumped in we were given scenarios no other game offers: rescuing hostages, disarming bombs and tactically laying siege to the opposition holed up in the fuselage of a jet.

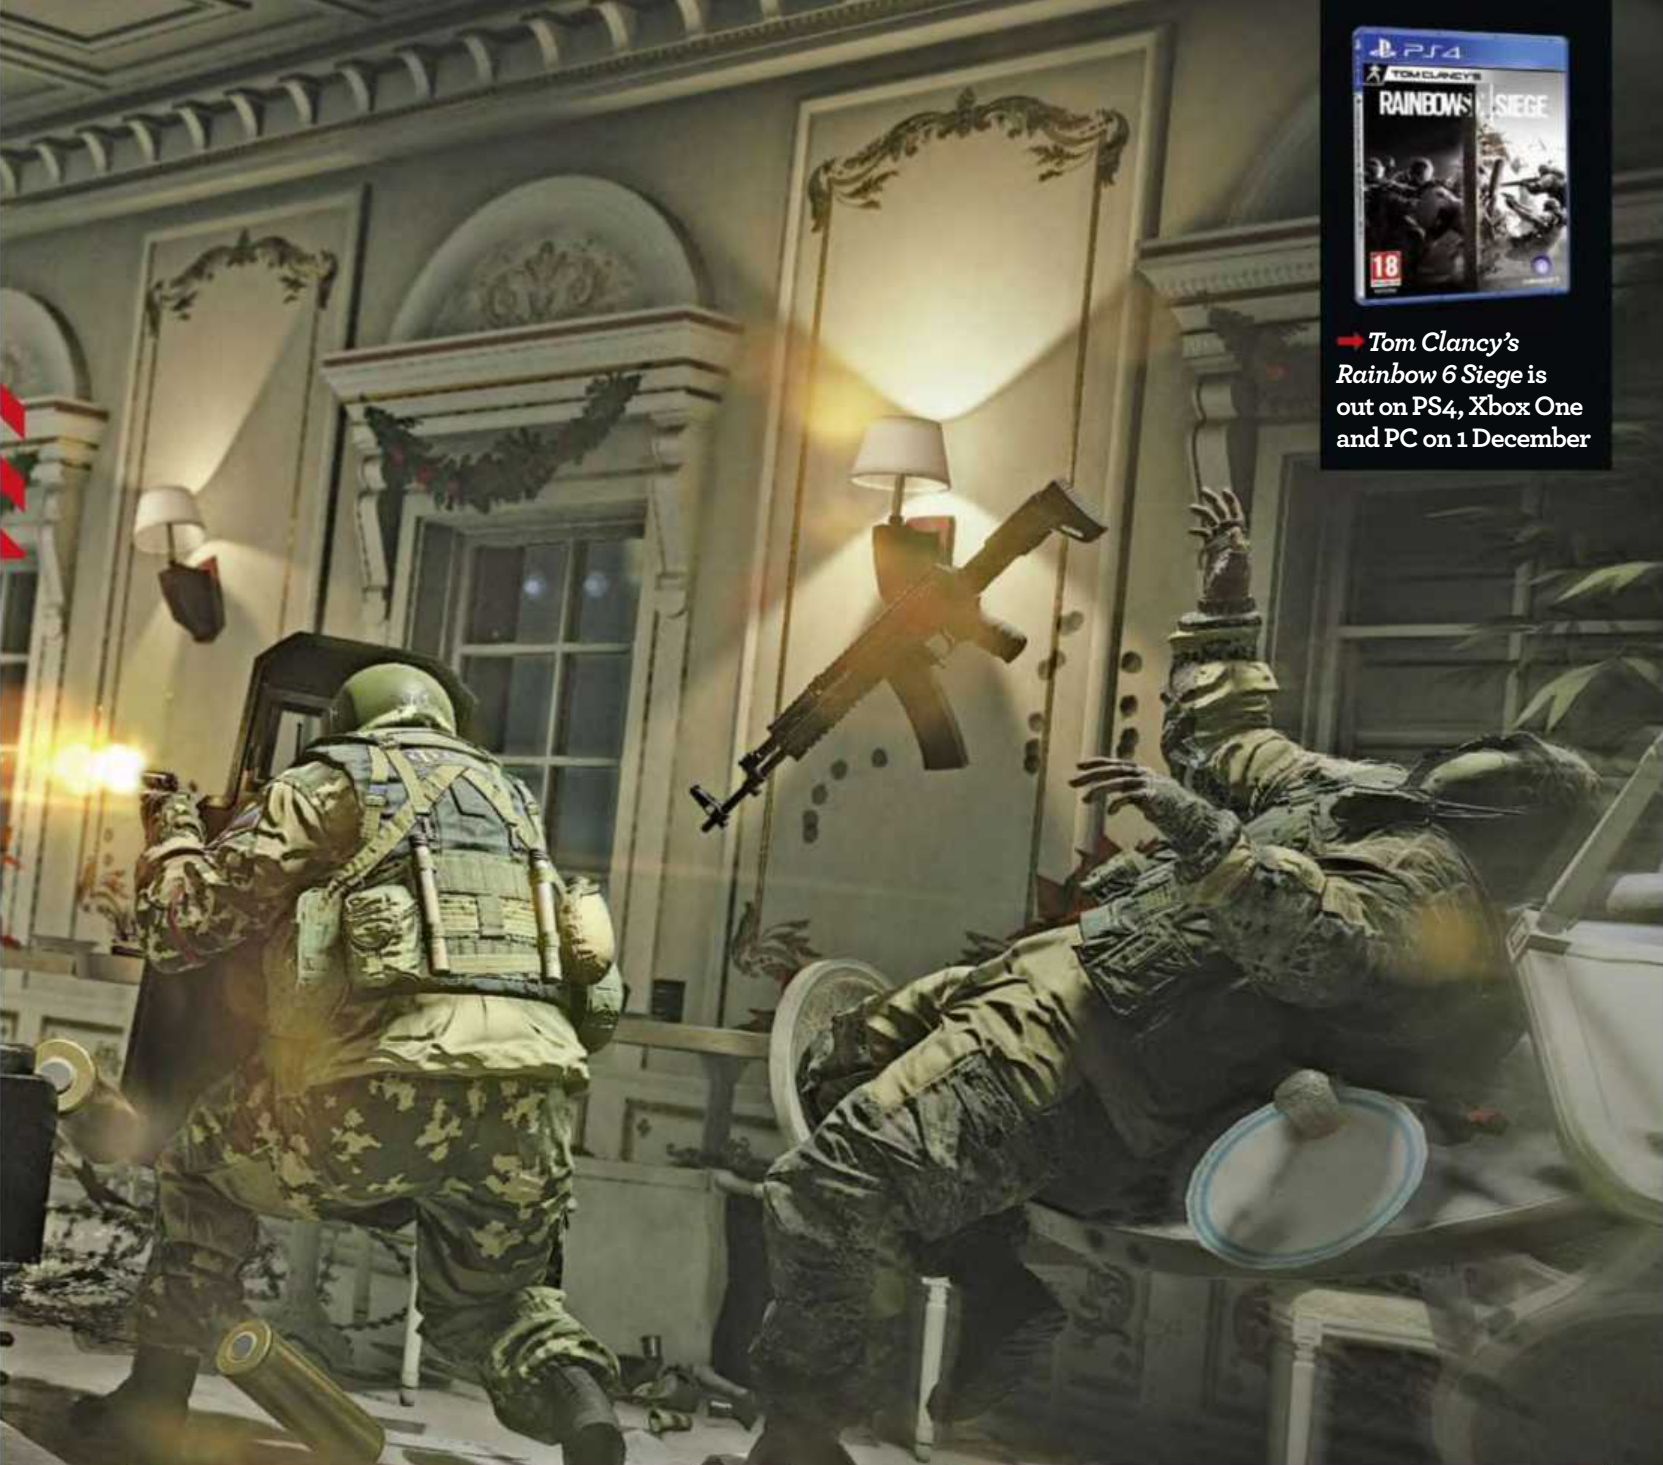

The Specialists

Rather than having classes, Siege opts for counter-terrorism operatives, ranging from Russian Spetsnaz to the SAS. Each has their own unique speciality which brings something unique to the battleground: some are focused on assault, while others are more defence-oriented and, as such, have body armour and giant bulletproof riot shields – but only boast a pistol to hand.

→ Tom Clancy's
Rainbow 6 Siege is out on PS4, Xbox One and PC on 1 December

Destructible environments

Within reason, everything you see can be blown to bits and destruction is at the heart of the game. Within moments of our first play, we were smacking down walls with our sledgehammer to create new lines of fire and even breaching ceilings and floors with explosive charges to create access points. It's no gimmick, either; mastering this is often the key to victory.

Gadgets galore

We are attacking a remote building in the woods. The other team (and a small bomb) is somewhere inside. But, before we rush in, we send in RC cars strapped with cameras to gather vital intel. This is a small slice of the gadgetry on offer, but it gives a good indication that your operative is suitably toolled up, with much more than a smoke grenade in his back pocket...

The maddest thing we've seen this week!

CAUGHT BY THE FUZZ

This lawbreaking wookiee found the force is very strong in Ukraine...

This is no Jedi mind trick, nor are your eyes deceiving you. This is indeed a wookiee being manhandled and led away, not by the Empire, but local police in Odessa, Ukraine.

According to reports, the unidentified walking carpet was driving Mayoral candidate Darth Vader (yes, that's a real name) to a polling station. Police then arrested him for violating a law which forbids campaigning on election day and failing to provide identification.

Clearly, none of these officers were ever taught to always let the wookiee win...

HIS DAY IN COURT!

Don't give up the day job (please!)

Introducing two-piece testing totty Natasha Oakley and Devin Brugman, who have made a career out of wearing bikinis in exotic locations. No, we didn't see that advertised at the job centre either...

The dynamite duo you see before you is Natasha Oakley (@tashoakley) and Devin Brugman (@devinbrugman), the creative geniuses behind "A Bikini A Day". Which, for the uninitiated, is a popular site which does nothing more than review all types of bikinis, all day, every day.

It started with the two sexy friends teaming up to travel to glamorous locations with nothing but a suitcase full of swimwear. The pair now boast millions of followers clicking daily to see what skimpy wares they're, er, wearing.

And looking at the duo on Miami Beach, it's not exactly hard to see why the brand – and booby babes – have proved a global smash!

They're more used to visiting fancy locations like Maui and Bondi Beach, but we wonder if Clacton-on-Sea might appeal? We'd even chuck in a 99 (with flake) for each to enjoy, which would hopefully seal the deal...

ASTON MARTIN

VITAL STATISTICSEngine 4 x electric motorsPerformance 500bhp or 1,000bhpProduction run 400 units per yearPrice £200,000 (est)On sale 2017

Bond's green machine

The Aston Martin RapideE is an environmentally friendly super saloon with up to 1,000bhp on-tap...

Just imagine if James Bond – 007 himself – gave a flying flip about the environment, and polar bears and melting ice caps and stuff. It would be the premise for the worst action movie ever conceived. The only saving grace is he would likely drive this ace machine: an all-electric, 1,000bhp Aston Martin RapideE.

Designed to appeal to the burgeoning Chinese market, the sleek super saloon looks set to go on sale in 2017 in two very different guises. The sensible option will pack around 550bhp, and offer a reasonable everyday range of 200 miles. But then – for people who like to be shaken and stirred – a madcap version for speed-loving double agents has been touted as an alternative.

The insane model will likely feature an electric motor in each wheel, developing around 800 to 1,000bhp. And, better still, Aston Chief Executive Officer Dr Andy Palmer has said it will also host a special button marked “Track Mode” that will adjust torque vectoring and traction so it can spank the Nürburgring in supercar-slaying times.

Expect a limited run of around 400 to go on sale in a couple of years' time, each costing an estimated £200,000. Oh, come on: you didn't really think Bond's eco-friendly ride would cost the same as a Martini, did you?

FILM
of the week!

Kill Your Friends

Picture this: it's the 1990s, Blur are storming up the charts and you're an artist and repertoire (A&R) man at one of the most influential labels in the UK. Your boss, James Corden (yes, really), is a coked-up mess and less competent than you. You want his job, but how best to get him out of the way? Well, the clue's in the title...

A narcissistic Nicholas Hoult faces this predicament.

Desperate to climb the career ladder at any cost, you witness his highs (holidaying in Cannes with a German DJ and his harem of hotties) to his catastrophic lows (lying in a pool of vomit).

The soundtrack is great and the journey unbelievable. We just wish Hoult didn't play a considerably watered-down version of the maniac from the original book. ★★★★★

FILM!

Scouts Guide To The Zombie Apocalypse

Just when you thought Hollywood couldn't repackage the zombie comedy, along comes a tale of three dorky scouts (and one hot stripper) armed with nothing but basic survival skills and sheepshank knots to save the day.

The film lacks the iconic touches that made coming-of-age comedies Superbad and Zombieland rewatchable, but that shouldn't deter you from putting aside 90 minutes of your day to enjoy this popcorn fodder. ★★☆☆☆

FILM!

Ronaldo

From the producers of acclaimed documentaries Senna and Amy comes the behind the scenes story of the best player on the planet – at least according to the Ballon d'Or voting panel.

It's the Real Madrid star away from the cameras, hanging with his son, training in his amazing pad, reassuring his mum ahead of a game and laughing with super agent-cum-mentor, Jorge Mendes.

Get ready to meet the man behind the hype. ★★☆☆☆

FRONT-ROW
FACTS ON THE COOLEST
CLASSICS

► All of the puppets in the movie used the same two body shapes (one for males and one for females) with different heads except for Kim Jong-il, to make him look that much smaller

► The statue in Kim Jong-il's palace is actually a human in heavy make-up. If you look closely, you can see his eyes blinking

► In the opening scene in Paris, the streets are paved with croissants

► Once finished, co-writer Matt Stone vowed never to make another film with partner Trey Parker because of the stresses and strains of working together. The duo spent 17 hours a day in each other's company, seven days a week, until three days before the film actually opened

Team America: World Police

DIRECTOR Trey Parker
RELEASED 2004

PLOT When evil Kim Jong-il develops a plan to annihilate the entire world, it's up to anti-terrorism outfit Team America and Broadway's finest actor – Gary Johnston – to infiltrate the extremist group, find the WMDs... and kill Kim.

GAME
of the week!

Guitar Hero Live

The best game to play with your mates (after you've downed a few pints and scoffed a kebab) returns following a five-year hiatus, but this time it's doing things a little differently.

The most noticeable change is your axe. Ditching the coloured buttons for two rows of three, it's as easy to master as before: just tap the correct button in time to the music.

Unfortunately, the price is still stonkingly high, as you're also forking out for a plastic guitar that wouldn't look out of place in Toys R Us. However, the game more than makes up for it with well over 200 tracks to take on and the promise of more via regular updates.

Definitely worth picking up to embrace your inner Lenny Kravitz, but make sure you don't powerslide and split your leather trousers... ★★★★★

The Hot List

Better Call Saul Season 1

After Breaking Bad left a void in our lives the size of Walter White's crystal meth empire, we yearned for more action in Albuquerque. The show's creators obliged with this prequel. Walt and Jesse are nowhere to be seen as we follow bent ex-cop Mike Ehrmantraut and lawyer Jimmy McGill, long before he became slippery Saul Goodman... ★★★★★

DVD!

The Goonies 30th Anniversary

We've never met anyone who hasn't seen The Goonies. However, for the rare one-in-a-million person who's inexplicably avoided this cult classic, there's now a 30th Anniversary Blu-ray, with a glut of special features and never-before-seen deleted scenes to fuel your interest just that little bit further. Hey you guys: it's a must buy. ★★★★★

DVD!

Broken Sword 5: The Serpent's Curse

The point and click adventure makes a welcome return with another intriguing storyline and plenty of excellent puzzles to sink your teeth into. Those unfamiliar with the unashamedly 90s style gameplay might grow bored, but those with a nostalgic slant can't go wrong. ★★★★★

GAME!

Ceelo Green Heart Blanche

This fifth album marks the Fk You hitmaker's return to the studio after a three-year break, and expertly executed collaborations make the wait worthwhile. Packed with smooth soulful tones and funky bass rifts, tracks like Est. 1980s show off vocal depth while Robin Williams is a perfect and emotional homage to the late, great comedian. ★★★★★

A QUICK WORD WITH...

KREPT AND KONAN SOUTH LONDON RAP DUO

HI, GUYS. HOW WAS THE BUDWEISER TOUR?

Konan It's been good. We've been having some fun with the crowd and they're very energetic. We've been to Bristol, Brighton and Southampton and there's been a different vibe every night.

WHICH TRACKS HAVE YOU KILLED IT WITH?

Krept They all get a good response, but our classic ones get the most energy. In Brighton, Freak Of The Week went crazy! Our DJ pulled a reload and the crowd carried on singing the whole track.

YOU'RE BOTH INTO YOUR AIRBOARDS. WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO NOW THEY'RE BANNED?

Konan We're just going to have to walk from now on! We've been walking today and it's been really stressful: it's not something we've been used to over the last month.

YOU'RE NOMINATED FOR FOUR MOBOS AND UP AGAINST SOME REALLY BIG NAMES. HOW STOKED ARE YOU ABOUT THAT?

Krept It's crazy. I remember when we used to watch the MOBOs thinking, "Imagine if we got nominated, or even if we just got to attend!" Now, we've got the most nominations. We've already won two awards against some of the biggest names in the country. It's great because it's stuff we've worked so hard on. YOU'RE SOUTH LONDON BOYS AND WILFRIED ZAHA IS ALWAYS GIVING YOU SHOUT OUTS. ARE YOU CRYSTAL PALACE FANS?

Krept I'm from Crystal Palace, but I don't actually support them. But I do support Wilf. If they're playing a big match, I'll support them. The ground is a big thing in our area.

YOU'VE ALWAYS SAID THAT YOU'D NEVER LET FAME GO TO YOUR HEADS. DO YOU STILL EAT AT McDONALD'S OR USE MONEY OFF VOUCHERS?

Konan Er, we try to cut it out. I think we've gone a bit Hollywood!

ARNOLD SCHWARZENEGGER
CHATS TO ZOO!

"I never wanted to play the TERMINATOR"

ZOO sat down with movie superstar Arnold Schwarzenegger to discuss the T-800's lasting appeal, his near-death experiences and painting his own Christmas cards...

H I, ARNIE! YOU'RE BACK AS THE T-800. HOW DOES IT FEEL?

Amazing! As soon as I read the first draft of Terminator Genisys, I knew I wanted to be part of the movie. When we did that first table read, everyone laughed in the right places and it was intense in other places. It was terrific. YOU WERE SUITABLY SATISFIED IT'S BETTER THAN TERMINATOR SALVATION, THEN?

Much better. That sucked! ACTION MOVIES ARE SECOND NATURE TO YOU NOW. HOW DID YOUR CO-STARS COPE?

They really got into it. What stood out was everyone's commitment. I talked to Alan Taylor, our director, and said, "No one's complained they're sore, injured, tired, or they can't do this or that!" They were pros. DID YOU REVISIT THE TERMINATOR MOVIES?

I had to! The other actors had more freedom to interpret their characters because they weren't locked in by previous actors or timelines. Sarah Connor and Kyle Reese of Genisys are completely different but for me, there was more pressure. I had to lock into that character quickly and play it exactly the same. It's not as if I'm playing a different Terminator.

WHY IS THE TERMINATOR SO POPULAR?

In the first Terminator movie, I destroy a police station. We had a special screening for the police force and even the officers were cheering when I wiped out the building. Everyone loves watching an indestructible machine destroy anything in front of him.

Cameron some of my ideas for how the Terminator should act: not looking while loading weapons, not blinking, no emotions. He told me I had to do it. And he was right.

WAS THE ORIGINAL TERMINATOR YOUR LAST SMALL FILM?

I've just done an independent zombie movie called Maggie, but even that cost $2.2million more to make than The Terminator! I enjoy both. Small movies shot in six weeks are great because it's all character-

DO YOU DO CHEAT DAYS?

Now and again. You can't go wrong with Austrian food when you want to indulge!

ARE THERE ANY ROLES YOU REGRET TURNING DOWN?

The Rock. When it was offered to me there was only an 80-page script covered with scribbles and it didn't seem fully baked. I'd love to make a movie with Michael Bay.

WHICH CLASSIC ARNIE QUOTES ARE YOUR OWN?

I tend to think of wild one-liners. In Predator, "Get to the chopper" was in the script, but when I chuck a machete at a guard and say "stick around", that's me ad-libbing.

AND WHAT ABOUT ALL THOSE TRADEMARK SCREAMS?

All improvised. Every single one!

"This is better than Terminator Salvation. That movie sucked!"

DO YOU STILL GET A GREAT REACTION FROM PASSERS-BY IN THE STREET?

All the time. I was rear-ended by this guy once and he took off. I chased him in my car and cut him up to stop him. These two guys jumped out trying to look tough. I got out and one of them said, "Oh sh*t, it's the Terminator!"

IS IT TRUE YOU DIDN'T WANT TO PLAY THE TERMINATOR?

I wanted the role of Kyle Reese because I didn't think I'd established myself enough as a hero to be a villain on screen. One day, I was telling James driven, but then I also love making big movies with visual effects, action and stunts.

DO YOU STILL DO YOUR OWN STUNTS?

When I can, but I've had a few near-misses which is why I love stunt people. On The 6th Day, I nearly drowned and it was my stunt double, Billy Lucas – who could see I was in big trouble – who saved my life.

IS THERE ANYTHING YOU DO THAT ISN'T SUPER MACHO?

Have you never seen Junior or Twins? Joking aside, I like to paint. In fact, I paint all of my Christmas cards.

M O M E N T S

2015

ZOO'S LEGENDARY BOOBY BLONDE REVEALS MORE THAN EVER BEFORE,
AS SHE FRONTS A COLLECTION OF THE YEAR'S RAUNCHIEST EVENTS...

ON SCREEN!

ZOO GIRLS!

CELEB BABES!

NAUGHTY PIGS!

Marvellous Melissa Debling needs no introduction. The curvy legend has appeared on more ZOO covers than we can count and each time ups the raunchiness levels.

But, when she happened to mention in passing about her love for see-through underwear, we took it as a hint – and answered her beck and call to give her exactly what she (and you) wanted: her rudest shoot yet!

Clearly, Kent's hottest babe couldn't wait, dressing down in some of the most revealing underwear she could lay her hands on – before telling us about her love of going commando, nip-slips and looking her best in the bedroom.

And if her jaw-dropping naughtiness isn't enough, our sexy cover star is here to bring you a saucy selection of the rudest moments of 2015 so far.

So let's get this show on the road... ➔

HEY, MELISSA! HOW DOES IT FEEL TO BE PRESENTING ZOO'S RUDEST MOMENTS OF 2015?

Oh, I love it! Especially when I get to do a particularly rude shoot – and this one definitely doesn't disappoint. Some of this sheer underwear is very see-through...

HOW RUDE OUT OF 10 WOULD YOU RATE YOUR LIFE AT THE MOMENT?

Er, about six, as I'm actually doing a lot of work on my house at the moment. Although, the other day I was doing some painting topless – as I didn't want to ruin any of my tops – but I completely forgot the builders were working on the extension just outside the window. We had a close call!

WHO ARE THE RUDEST: BLONDES OR BRUNETTES?

Definitely blondes! We're way saucier and love to mix things up when you least expect it, especially in the bedroom. When we're out, we're the ones who are turning all the heads. I think it's because we can get away with a lot more because we're cheekier.

WHAT HAS BEEN YOUR FAVOURITE RUDE MOMENT FROM YOUR ZOO CAREER?

Mine and Daisy Watts' X-rated issue! We were fully naked and I remember Daisy having a good old play with my boobs. Oh, and there was some bondage gear there as well...

WOW! WE THINK 2015 HAS BEEN VERY RUDE, BUT WHAT ARE YOUR PERSONAL HIGHLIGHTS?

It has to be Miley Cyrus! Everything she does is really rude and the cameras are always there to catch it! She's always getting caught, isn't she? I bet she'd be one crazy girlfriend! ➔

“MILEY CYRUS
WOULD BE
ONE CRAZY GIRLFRIEND”

SO, WHAT KIND OF GIRLFRIEND ARE YOU
THEN, MELISSA?

I'm way more chilled out compared to Miley! I still have my crazy moments, of course. But to be honest I much prefer just chilling out and hanging around with the lads. I find that often naturally leads to ruder things anyway...

HOW DO YOU LOOK YOUR BEST IN THE BEDROOM?

I think it looks really cute when girls wear a big, baggy T-shirt with nothing on underneath while they're lounging around in bed.

WHAT ABOUT WHEN YOU'RE OUT AND ABOUT – CAN YOU KEEP UP THE RUDENESS?

Well, I love to leave the house without any underwear on. There's something so sexy about not having a bra on when you're wearing a nearly see-through white top. Or ➔

“I LOVE TO GO OUT OF
THE HOUSE
WITH NO
UNDERWEAR

how about the occasional nip-slip?

NOW YOU'RE TALKING...

That's a very crafty way of being rude. You'll be on the dance floor posing for a picture with your friends when, all of a sudden, oops, out pops your nipple!

SO HAVE YOU EVER
FALLEN VICTIM TO AN ACCIDENTAL SLIP?

I definitely have at some point, but it's mostly when I've been drunk, so it's something you kind of forget about! It's just one of those things: they're going to come out at some point, so why not just let them be free?

TALKING OF BEING FREE, THERE WAS PLENTY OF
NAKEDNESS ON 2015'S

Yeah, Big Brother's Harry Amelia couldn't keep her clothes on, could she? She must be very body confident and love showing off her body, with all those cameras.

X-rated shoots and the film is basically that – but with lots of added sex! Also, I enjoyed Magic Mike XXL. It's not one for the boys, but if you take a girl, it'll definitely get her in the mood!

BUT NOWHERE NEAR AS RUDE AS THIS SHOOT, THOUGH MEL?

Definitely not! I can't say it enough – I just love to wear lacy and sheer lingerie! Everybody gets a good eyeful but enough is hidden to make sure you want more. It's been the best of both worlds today: I think the only thing I didn't do was some shots to really show off my bum – but there's plenty of time for that in the future!

IRON MAN

TACTICAL ASSAULT LIGHT OPERATOR SUIT (TALOS) EXPECTED 2026

Gamers looking for an extra boost on their console soldiers can strap on an exoskeleton not too dissimilar from Tony Stark's contraption in Iron Man, but soon it could be a thing of reality. Being developed by the US military, the £50m robotic suit is anticipated to be bulletproof, stealthy and even provide superhuman strength! A whopping 95 different organisations – from universities to private sector firms – have a hand in developing the tool, which is also intended to be able to monitor the wearer's vital signs and even self-heal their combat wounds. Early prototypes are being produced, but don't expect any soldiers to be wearing it before 2026.

HEADS UP

AUGMENTED REALITY HEADSET EXPECTED 2035

Like Google Glass but for the battlefield, BAE Systems has been working hard to produce an augmented reality headset that'll allow generals to have a fully 3D version of the battlefields occupied by their soldiers. While current technology already provides night vision and thermal imaging, this new development aims to allow pilots to use special gloves to control drones from a "wearable cockpit" which shows them live video footage from the aircraft. On the battlefield, ammunition details or enemy insights could be displayed by the technology. BAE estimates this gizmo could be the size of a contact lens in the next 20 years.

SMART WEAPONS

EXACTO BULLET EXPECTED NOW TESTING

The US Department Of Defense has already showcased what it claims to be the first "successful live-fire tests" of these bullets that just don't miss. The .50-caliber rounds – a Sharpie pen-sized bullet – are launched from long-range sniper rifles or machine guns and can have their direction manipulated after firing. The Extreme Accuracy Tasked Ordnance system – nicknamed EXACTO by its developer, the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) – is not yet combat ready. However, demonstrations of its working prototype show shots being fired at a target before being redirected towards a new one. Expect the technology to be developed into homing grenades.

LASER RIFLE

BURKE PULSER EXPECTED NOW TESTING

Bullets, smart or otherwise, could soon be a thing of the past, as electronic engineers have been tasked with creating a ray gun. Called the Burke Pulser, it fires an electric pulse at the target like a Taser – only much more powerfully. Its creator, James E Burke, came up with the clever idea of creating the gun out of existing M4 rifles, so it didn't add to a soldier's already heavy load. The Pulser isn't the first electric weapon to be tested by the military: one prototype was built from a Nerf gun constructed of aluminium, which fired 20,000 volts at the target.

INVISIBILITY CAMOUFLAGE SUIT EXPECTED 2016

Basic camouflage could itself soon disappear, with stealth experts working on invisibility suits for combatants. Trials are set to begin in 2016 on the kit, which will keep fighters concealed against whatever background they're up against. The plan is for the suits to feature a series of LEDs and electromagnetic waves that can bend light around corners, which will give 360-degree cover whether you're in a desert, jungle or urban area.

ROBOT ARMY

SECURITY GUARD ROBOT A1 EXPECTED OUT NOW

Forget having to have an army of humans at your disposal: soon we can expect armed robotic systems doing the dirty work. Unmanned drones are already commonly used across war zones, but foot soldiers are still the norm on the ground. However, that could all change thanks to South Korea's use of Samsung's machine gun-toting Security Guard Robot A1 on the border with North Korea. Other armies are reluctant to employ armed robots at ground level because of the current quality sensors that control machine gun fire, but as they improve we'll likely see them added to infantry units across the world to lower the risk of human casualties.

AND FUNNIEST STORIES FROM THE WORLD

Director
Anthony Wonke

CRISTIANO RONALDO'S SECRETS UNVEILED!

*What makes him tick? Who's his best mate? What does he really think of Messi?
Anthony Wonke, the director of new warts 'n' all documentary Ronaldo, reveals all...*

Needs Messi

"Ronaldo has a lot of respect for Messi. He acknowledges that because the media and press can't get access to them, they create these rivalries. They play for rival clubs and the only time they do get to see each other is either in an El Clasico or on a podium where they're always competing. They're not best friends, but they're not massive enemies either. Ronaldo says it in the film: they compliment each other and bring out the best in each other."

Enjoys the pressure

"Ronaldo is a clever guy - he's very eloquent and he likes to talk a lot. But one of the things that really stuck out was his ability to absorb vast amounts of pressure. There's pressure around him every day, from his mum, his agent Jorge Mendes, the people around him, and all the Real Madrid fans, who are fanatical. He's in the papers every day and the world is watching him all the time. But he's such a calm and chilled out individual, and seems like he almost enjoys the pressure."

Ronaldo will be in cinemas for one night only on 9 November and is also available on DVD, Blu-Ray and digital download

"Ronaldo doesn't have a social life – but texts Rihanna!"

Mates with Rihanna

"He's surprisingly self-effacing. He's aware of his image and how it has been generated around the world, but he's not just a mannequin. One time we had to ask Rihanna if we could use her music. There was me, Ronaldo, Paul Martin the producer, his brother Hugo, and his best friend Ricardo all trying to work out what to say to her. Ronaldo ended up just texting her while we were still figuring it out."

Mendes the charmer

"Ronaldo and Jorge are unbelievably close. Jorge was fantastic and he's a very welcoming guy. To a degree, the success of Ronaldo is because a lot of people like Jorge – people were charmed by him everywhere we went. Everything Jorge said would happen when he met Ronaldo as a youngster has come true so he sees his agent more as a brother or father figure. They're very intense, incredibly focused and workaholics. They've also both come from humble backgrounds to be the biggest people in football."

Self-imposed exile

"He leads a relatively secluded life. I don't think he's lonely, but rather he likes to be deliberately alone at times. He has a very close group of friends and his family. But he likes to get away from all the madness and have quiet time, too. He mainly hangs out with his son and the few people around his house. I think it stems from his decision at an early age to be the world's best player. It's self-imposed exile."

No social life

"At the time of filming he was with Irina Shayk and we shot them going to various events and to dinner, but they broke up and it didn't make the cut. He doesn't have a really active social life. He has this spa that's attached to his house with state-of-the-art fitness and recovery machines, saunas, steam rooms and Jacuzzis. So while other footballers get home from training and relax, he gets home and does another workout."

Yannick Bolasie speaks to ZOO

Yannick's on the hotline wing

"I started from the bottom like Drake!"

Having climbed from non-league football to the top tier, the Crystal Palace winger talks £60m price tags, Wilfried Zaha's new house and Alan Pardew's love of grime...

HI, YANNICK. YOUR GAFFER VALUED YOU AT £60M THIS SUMMER. THAT MUST HAVE BEEN SOME CONFIDENCE BOOSTER... You've almost got to laugh about it. It's crazy to think where I've come from and where I've been playing. Then, to have a manager of Alan Pardew's quality talk about me like that, it makes me feel very proud of myself. DOES IT MEAN YOU'RE THE FIRST NAME ON THE TEAM SHEET? No, we've brought in better players so the competition is even harder. You have to start fast as a winger in this team, or you might be off with the subs. YOU'RE ALSO MAKING A BIT OF A NAME FOR YOURSELF AS A GRIME MC AS

WELL. WHAT DOES ALAN PARDEW MAKE OF THE GENRE? He's fine with it. The moment he finishes his meeting before the game, he's like, "Right, let's get the music on." He's always up for it and his music is OK to be fair. Wilfried Zaha and me play the grime – our go-to song is Skepta's That's Not Me. SPEAKING OF ZAHA, HAS HE INVITED YOU TO HIS NEW £2.5M PAD IN SURREY YET? The lads have been giving him some gentle stick about that. You never know what to expect from Wilf, just like when he's on the pitch. Saying that, he should be asking for money off after the estate agent put it in the papers! ARE YOU A BIT MORE CAREFUL WITH YOUR CASH, HAVING COME UP THE NON-

LEAGUE ROUTE? The way I've come up, through all the leagues, I've had periods where I wasn't even getting paid! At Plymouth Argyle, the PFA had to step in and help with my wages. Every few months the club was in administration. That taught me a lot. SHOULD PREMIER LEAGUE CLUBS BE SCOUTING NON-LEAGUE FOOTBALL MORE AFTER WHAT YOU AND JAMIE VARDY ARE CURRENTLY DOING? There's a lot of talent in non-league, but you have to be mentally strong to make the transition. Jamie Vardy has the right character, that's why he's doing so well. It's also better when the player coming through is older as they understand the opportunity they've been given better. YOU'VE GOT DRAKE'S STARTED FROM THE BOTTOM ON YOUR DEEZER PLAYLIST. IS THAT THE SOUNDTRACK FOR YOUR CAREER TRAJECTORY? Definitely! I remember having that on when we got promoted to the Premier League, and thinking, "this fits me now". It's quite a personal track. I also have a bit of Afrobeats to get my dancing feet ready for my touchline celebrations! WHO HAS THE WORST TASTE IN MUSIC IN THE PALACE DRESSING ROOM? Damien Delaney! He listens to this guitar stuff where it's just people screaming! No one can even understand what it is and the guys cane him for it!

"We give Zaha stick about his new £2.5m pad!"

"Third place in my first Africa Cup Of Nations!"

WHAT HAS BEEN YOUR BEST MOMENT OF 2015 SO FAR?

That's a hard one – and we've still got two months left! Coming third in my first Africa Cup Of Nations was a big deal, and so was becoming the first Palace player to get a hat-trick in the Premier League. A lot of our forwards weren't that happy about that! But, most of all, I scored my first goal in the Premier League this year. That was a big weight off my shoulders.

WHAT HAS CHANGED TO ENABLE YOU TO START SCORING SO REGULARLY?

Last season was all about surviving, so there wasn't much time to practice in front of goal. We had to keep our legs fresh, so it was almost like every training session was about team shape, then resting to keep yourself fit for Saturday. This season we aren't just looking at surviving, so we're looking to do a lot more in front of goal.

CALLUM SMITH & ROCKY FIELDING CHAT TO ZOO

SCOUSE SMASH UP!

Liverpool's undefeated super middleweight prospects talk it out for the last time ahead of their big clash...

HI, CALLUM AND ROCKY. SO, WHO'S GOING TO HAVE THE LOSS ON HIS RECORD AFTER SATURDAY NIGHT?

Callum Smith Rocky's "o" has got to go because I'm the better fighter all round. I'm better than him technically and I've got a better boxing brain. I'm superior in every department. It's fine me saying it: now I've got to get in there and prove it.

Rocky Fielding I am confident I can win, and I think I will knock him out. He's been putting away blown-up middleweights with his body shots. When I come in throwing shots from different angles and with both hands, I've been knocking people clean out – putting them to sleep!

IS IT GOING TO COME DOWN TO WHO'S GOT THE POWER ON THE NIGHT THEN?

CS No, I think Rocky's got to convince himself that he's going to win. He's talking about blown-up middleweights but he knocked out Brian Vera – a middleweight who came out of retirement.

RF All I'm saying is he's been in with Christopher Rebrasse and Nikola Sjekloca, who cannot punch, and gone the distance. They caught him with shots that if I threw them, they would hurt him.

YOU BOTH CAME UP IN THE SAME AMATEUR GYM. WHO USED TO GET

THE BETTER OF WHOM IN THE SPARRING?

RF I was 81 kilos and he was 69 kilos at the time so I used to bully him, but that's because I was bigger and older than him.

CS We didn't really spar, apart from a couple of rounds of technical stuff, because of the weight difference. But if he wants to believe that then he can – I don't think he's ever bullied anyone in his life. We'll see on fight night how it goes.

WERE YOU GOOD FRIENDS BACK THEN AND IS THAT FRIENDSHIP OVER NOW?

RF We go way back so there's no animosity between us. I even went to his 18th birthday party. He's never done anything to me to get wound up about and the same from me to him – it's business.

CS We've always been quite close but ever since I turned professional and it became inevitable we'd fight, we stopped speaking as much. There's no bad blood, we just distanced ourselves because we knew what was coming.

CALLUM, HOW IMPORTANT IS IT FOR YOU TO MAKE HISTORY AND COMPLETE THE SET OF BRITISH TITLE WINNERS IN THE SMITH FAMILY?

CS It's very important. A lot of people were saying I was past British level and I had missed my chance, but after seeing all my brothers win it, I always said I would fight for it. Now I've got my chance.

CALLUM SMITH

ROCKY FIELDING

AND DO THE BRAGGING RIGHTS PALE IN COMPARISON TO WHAT THIS CAN DO TO YOUR CAREER, ROCKY?

RF This is a world-level stage fight – win this and it's massive. Callum's been built up and spoken about a lot. I'm doing the same but not getting the same attention. We'll see if I get the hype around me when I win.

"I'm superior to Rocky in every department"

Lauda, everyone!

Lewis Hamilton

Also good at driving...

The 2015 F1 champ is a man of many talents, not least driving fast on a track. Here are some other things he clearly doesn't suck at...

Fashion icon

Lewis is so fashionable he was too cool for Wimbledon's Royal Box, after being refused entry this summer for turning up without a tie. Look how bothered he is as he hangs out with Kylie Jenner (right).

Movie star

The camera loves him so much, he lands roles to play himself. After voicing his own character in animated blockbuster Cars 2, he was out in Rome in the flesh, typecast for comedy sequel Zoolander 2.

Football great

Power League is for mere mortals; a kickabout in the park for Lewis usually involves Thierry Henry, Robert Pires, Jamie Redknapp and Jamie Carragher. Because he needs the competition.

No, I didn't bring the bibs

champ

You've heard of The Undertaker. Now meet The Overtaker. Having swapped the track for a wrestling ring ahead of last weekend's Mexican GP, Lewis doled out a beating on the nation's biggest box office grappler, Místico.
